

In response to doubts over our findings on non-compliant CCTV systems:

CameraWatch stands by our assertion that up to 90% of CCTV systems are non-compliant. This figure is based on the 3,000-plus CCTV systems observed throughout the UK over the past 4 years by the company Paul Mackie, our compliance adviser and a director of CameraWatch works for. He says, "Some of these systems fall at the first hurdle of not being notified to the ICO, some from a very brief expert look around fall down on signage, and some from camera siting/camera type. More in-depth examination reveals concerns re training of staff, the documentation available, storage of data, security of equipment/data etc."

"In the last year, during the run-up to the launch of CameraWatch on the 30th May, several CameraWatch directors have looked at hundreds of systems and our findings further support these figures."
